The Moral Inductive of Modernt Kinds of Food.

At a scance of the French Academy of Science, held on the 2d of April, was read a currous paper upon the moral inflaence of difficient kinds of food. The writer relates in detail a dustile series of experiments that he performed upon times! with the two capital articles—tofte and wine—He prepared himself for each cents by a fast of forty hours, during which time he are nothing but a few globules of gunt, in order that the stomath should be entirely capity if the moment of commencing. Then he are nothing but coffee and bread, or size and bread, for several days, and certainly noted his mental sensitions. We quote his words.

If I swallowed a certain quantity of strong coffee slowly I felt a singular change take place, in my nature I seemed almost instantineously transformed into another man, all facility at tingulsed itself in my breast, and it the same moment my intelect developed an inaccustomed activity; it seemed as it all my faulties had renatively; it seemed as it all my faulties had renatively; it seemed sailed in a word, my whole the related to be communicative or kindly. There is fault somewhere and there in verwes a better coso for exercising the talent of a post office item. The monthly of the public whose the hiten is, and how such perfection at blumining is attained, would be a public benefactor. The shortost way now to reach Oil City by terri is no mail under cover to New York. It there is any remody, it should be applied.

The Unadilla Bank.

Editors Morning Herald:
In your articles this morning aliuding to the recent failure of the Unadilla Hank, of Otsego county, N. Y., your remarks in regard to the managers of the bank are, I think, unnecessarily severe, and I know quite unmerited. The active and responsible managers of this bank were Hon. A. B. Watson, President, and Clark I. Hayes, Cashler, by whom nearly all the stock was owned. Mr. Watson, some twenty years the scalor of Mr. Hayes, has long been considered one of the pattern men of New York State. Remarkable for his strict integrity, great energy of character, most excellent business capacity, guided by prudence and sound judgment, a quick perception and clear discrimination of facts, he has hitherto been considered one of the most successful business men of the State, and one whose counsel and advice have been sought for and followed in matters of great public interest, as much probably as that of any other man in

Mr. Hayos, a noble-hearted and experienced man, a native (and all his life time a resident) of Unndilla, may justly be considered in nowise, except in years and experience, as behind Mr. Watson. They have long been engaged as the ilrm of "Watson & Hayes," in manufacturing and other legitimate business outside of banking and as such firm have taken loans, no doubt, at legal rates of interest, but as bankers have nev er, I am confident, offered any unusual inducments to depositors. To those well acquainted with these men, as is the writer, your remarks this morning seem extremely unjust and excite unpleasant reflections. That they have met with severa losses and that unscrupulous men may have been at work to secretly undermine their credit for a base pur pose, cannot probably be denied. Mistortune dent business men; misfortunes which no human eye could have to reseen, and it hardly seems necessary for the public good, or in good taste to stigmatize such men and without a bearing as "eriminally guilly" reckless speculators, &c. Were you well acquainted with Messrs. Watson & Hayes, you would as soon think of calling our worthy Bank Presidents and careful and trusty Cashiers, reckless speculators as you would Messrs. W. & H. So Messis. Editors please b a little more charatable and remember that wh n onest men lose their money they do not al ways lose their self-respect nor their suscepti bility of deeply feeling a thrust at their good name and their standing as honorable and cor Yours &c., N. E. Bates. rect business men.

REMARKS—In commenting upon the above failure we simply pointed out the heritable tendency to whit speculation, hankruptcy and ruing both on the part of bank managers tors, when the former stimulate the greed of the of the latter by the offer of much higher rates of interest than are obtainable elsewhere, and when those who have toose capital are tempted to leave their money with bankers who cannot possibly pay the higher rates by any safe investment. The Unaddia Bank, by offering 7 per cent, induced very large deposits, which were used in a very reckless manner, and when the depositors called for their hard carned cash, their was nothing to show for it. But it seems there was another to tive on the part of the depositors putting their mey out of their hands, that is thus set forth by the New York Herald .

by the New York Heraid.

It appears that the people of Otsego county have been meely capit in their own trap by the tailure of the Unadilla Bank, and that the is the secret of their intuitions. The tainers and others in the vicinity having money on hand somed it to the Bank, and took the noise of the officers for the some in order to avoid taxation. In trying to rob the government of its dust they have themselves been robbed. Of course there is not much sympthy for the victims since this fact has been known. There are, no double, a great many others in the some situation these Otsego people were in-string to chear the government by all soits of evasions. They had better look out; for dishonest practices in one me apt to begut dishonesty in others having business relations with each other.

We give "the other side" the benefit of a hearing, but the writer could not have had the article aputed to it expressions and accusations which it does not contain. The facts stated in the article are not gains tid by our correspondent; he them. The motive of the article was to refute a Democratic argument from such a failure that the whole National banking system was unsafe, and to show, on the other hand, that they are not permitted to Issue a note until ample scenition or the b circulation are deposited at Washington. But their depositors are only a little better se cured than in any State bank or by private bankers. The Cleveland Herald makes a note of the first that "proceedings are to be commenced ed against the officers of the Unadilla National Bank for alleged swindling. The Coal Eletts of Pennsylvania.

A Chicago commercial paper has a very com-prehensive article upon the coal fields of Illinois as compared with those of Ponneyivania. The whole world is well acquainted with the anthracite coal of Pennsylvania, and knows that it is found in its richest deposits in the Lehigh and Schuylkili Valleys. This latter basin is supposed to contain thirt, en distinct seems of coal, an its qualities comprise three varieties; the lower veins producing white ashes, the middle gray or pult, and the upper red ashes. The white ash requires the strongest furnice draft, and the red the least. The later is the most apt to "clink" ader a strong heat, and consequently the white ush is the most used for smelting and puddling when an intense heat is absolutely necessary.— This coul ranges north of the Schnylkill over a wide area of country, and away up towards the various mountain spurs of Central Pennsylvania, and is mostly conveyed by ralliond and canal to all the various markets. The Lackawana Creek drains the eastern portion, and meets the Susquehanna in the centre of the basin. The coal of this region has several outless; but the North Branch Canal supplies the country north and west of Scranton. One cross section of the Wyoming Basin exhibits half a dozun disavee, the coal lying near the surface. The measures or seams of coal in the vicinity of the Nanticoke Mountains occur in great purity and extraordinary thickness, and in some of the exenvations near Wilkesbarre a locomotive and train of care might be driven through the exeavated avenues of these mines. At Nanticoke is a vein thirty-five feet thick; another at Wlikesbure twenty-eight ; one at Pittson fourteen ; and one at Scranton ten feet thick. The volus generally grow thinner towards the cast, and com closer together. The Bultimore Company mines, near Wilkesburre, are very interesting, from their having been worked so long that about twenty-five aeres have been excavated, nort the overhanging rock. Vast masses still re main to be mined, and the expense of cutting is reduced to a minimum from the favorable circumstances under which it is situated. 'A look at these enormous coal veins removes all fear that the supply of coal will over fall. Inexhaustability scenes impressed upon these tremondons aggregations of fuel; and ages to come will look upon the excusations of their times, and wonder still that no end of the coal reserve seems possible. And all this lies on the Atlantic slope of mind us of his presence is the cluse stubs he carelessly threw around the hotel and his name in the segister. Before his departure he called the Government. I had risen step by step from Lieutenaut General. But the "rubber arm busisound the General upon his political views, I said, "Excuse me, Ulyss, but how are you going sound the Genera to vote at the coming Presidential election? "Well," said he, "between you and me and the splittoon, I think I shall vote on one side or the other, if I am let alone." "Exactly," said I but have you no desire to occupy the chair of Moses the Second; to climb to the topmost round of the ladder of fame, while you have of Liberty fresh laurel roots for your brow?" "To be certainly," said he; "I had rather ride than walk, any time, especially if I can drive. But," he continued, " if I can't hold the ribbons but have got to depend upon the driver for my course and speed, I had rather buy a wheelborrow and wheel myself." (And any one that knows him knows this to be the fuct.) said he, changing the subject, "let us promenade awhile upon the piazzerum of the hotel."

As we stepped out upon the porto rice of th alcony for a quiet walk, the people commence to crowd around to see and hear the General. One sylph-like creature, who measured some twelve feet around the waist, and stood thirties hands high, fainted just us we were passing her, and cried, "Save me!" but tha was too old a dodge, and hastly calling an unbleached American, we passed on leaving the fair one in his arms; her surprise an disgust when she "come to" to find herself sup ported not by a Lieutenant General, but a colored gentleman, was amusing. She didn't faint any

I was with difficulty that we threaded our wa through the constantly increasing throng, and numerous were the inquiries made as to who the endaverous looking partner of the Genera was. Some said I was his private sceretary while one aftermed that I was traveling agent for Liver Fill Company, who paid me an immens-salary to go around and exhibit myself us an exsimple of what man will become who does no take Liver Pills or Plantation Bitters.

ning, I was the " tiger," and after the conclusion of our promenade we found that the enthusiastic crowd had litterally out and clipped off several inches from our coat tail as sovenirs and mitors. As it was a borrowed cost I wore, I feel my loss most keenly, but Grant had grown ac ustomed to it.

You have no idea Mr. Editor, of the manner is rhich our chiel is bothered by these hurann gadfiles. When he first came here the rush to see him was immense. When I arrived the night before the " hop," his hand and arm was about the size of a stove-pipe, from repeated hand shaking; his lips were swelled like those of a prize lighter from klasing the handsomest of the young ladies; his head was growing bald, not from age, but because the crowd would insist on having a lock of hair as a keepsake. Everywhere he went the people would follow. At dinner he was surrounded by walters armed with clubs, who knocked down scores and scores of would-be tilends, who were continually passing victuals was forced to have some one leed him while he used both hands to shake those of the crowd Did he becken for one of the waiters, fifty would shift for him and of-times several would lose their lives in their efforts to serve him. Young ladies were continually fainting or failing across his pathway until he was forced to have an al tendant with a wheelbarrow, who wheeled them away as fast they dropped. When he went bath. ing his clothes were stolen, unless carefully guarded; and sometimes the crowd on the beach was so great he come near drowning before he constantly engaged to handing away the hoquets billet doux, a numerous presents with which h

The above will enevey but a slight idea of the trials of being great. No wonder Grant went to Washington to get rid of the terrible crowd of fashionables at the watering places. And if he is not shaken, kissed and worried to death-if e accepts the nomination—gets votes enough don't back out, and gets no pull back, he will securs to prevent. This is my solemn conviction.

Now, that the chief attraction has left, I proorse to give myself up to annusuments exclusive ly, and by the time this reaches you I khall be truggling in the mighty Maelstrom of h light pants, waterfalls and muslin, for which this place is calcirated. One young lady informed mayesterday she had jilted thirteen lovers the night before, and it was a poor night for flirting too! Spence's Petroleum Burner.—I respectful ly invite the attention of all persons using coal or wood as fuel, to my new invention bearing the above title, which substitutes potroleum, petroleum tar, or other fluid hydro-earliens to produce fiest as a motive power. Its successful operation has been domonstrated beyond early, as will be seen by the subjuined testimonials from taxli, as will be seen by the subjudged testimonials from dishiterested parties, well known throughout the off re-gions. The following cor siderations will commend it to general use. First—the economy. It will save from 30 to 23 per cent. of the ordinary expense of coal or wood. Sec-ond—the perfect safety. There is no possibility of ex-plosion—the fire being prevented from running back to the feeder by the air bluw pipe surrounding the same, Third—the universal application. It can be adapted with equal finelits and uncase to all their seconds. hird.—Its universal application. It can be sdapted ith equal facility and success to all kinds of portable attenary and marine boilers, "and in locomotives to generating steam, under all kinds of stills, retorts, &c Fourth—Its labor-saving advantages. After being s in operation, such as the slop telty of the process, the t can be run with perfect uniformity with but little at tention. It can be as easily regulated as a kerosems lamp, and with as complete combustion. Without on harging faither, i give the following extract from my "Letters Patent," setting forth my chains to this spe

eith invention:

Let Providing within the fire-box or furnace, a solid ambatance or its requivalent, capable of vaccining and retaining the required degree of heat for reacting perfortent or other faild byten cat bons, into gases when brought in contact with the same.
